T. J. Nichols : A Christmas Play: A True Story before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Christmas Play: A True Story:

This is a Christmas play for children and adults and is very easy to perform. There is no memorization and the play will take about 30 minutes or less. I did not mention in the book, but we are going to place a manger scene at the left side of our church. In this play a grandmother is babysitting all the children while the adults are last minute Christmas shopping. While she is preparing some things in the kitchen, she hears the Lord say, they don't know the real meaning of Christmas. This play is acted out by adults while the grandmother sits in a rocking chair and tells the story of Christmas to the children. It will be wonderful for both children and adults as we remember the real reason why Jesus came.
