Scott MacDonald : A Critical Cinema 5: Interviews with Independent Filmmakers (No. 5) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Critical Cinema 5: Interviews with Independent Filmmakers (No. 5):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great sellerBy MillyI requested to have this book immediately in order to prep for an interview I'm conducting. The seller got back to me right away and sent it to me in less than two days! It doesn't get any better than that. I love any opportunity to eliminate the expediency of ordering a book on kindle. Anyway, It's a solid book of interviews with avant garde directors by an esteemed film professor.

A Critical Cinema 5 is the fifth volume in Scott MacDonald's Critical Cinema series, the most extensive, in-depth exploration of independent cinema available in English. In this new set of interviews, MacDonald engages filmmakers in detailed discussions of their films and of the personal experiences and political and theoretical currents that have shaped their work. The interviews are arranged to express the remarkable diversity of modern independent cinema and the interactive community of filmmakers that has dedicated itself to producing forms of cinema that critique conventional media.

"Both MacDonald and his subjects are thoughtful, articulate, engaging. The result is a work that is as readable as it is informative and insightful."From the Inside Flap"Critical Cinema 5, and indeed the entire series, is a monumental achievement. MacDonald's detailed knowledge of many branches of cinema, and his subtle and generous insight, allow him to frame his interviews with the most important independent filmmakers in such a way as to elicit the most interesting aspects of their perceptions of their work and its context. The scholarship is superior, and MacDonald writes clearly, honestly, and elegantly."David E. James, author of The Most Typical Avant-Garde"Both MacDonald and his subjects are thoughtful, articulate, engaging. The result is a work that is as readable as it is informative and insightful."William Wees, author of Light Moving in Time
