Annette Kuhn, Guy Westwell : A Dictionary of Film Studies (Oxford Quick Reference) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Dictionary of Film Studies (Oxford Quick Reference):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great reference tool By K. Hall This is a very good reference work for film terms, and the kindle version is very easy to use. There's enough detail to understand each term without the points getting lost in too much description. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Quite Helpful By RTA rather nice dictionary full of useful terms. Helped me on more than a few of my papers last semester. 0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Customer great reference book

This authoritative dictionary features more than 500 detailed entries covering all aspects of film studies, including terms, concepts, debates, and movements in film theory and criticism, national, international and transnational cinemas, film history, film movements and genres, film industry organizations and practices, and key technical terms and concepts. Most entries also feature recommendations for further reading and a large number have web links which are regularly updated on a companion website. The dictionary is international in its approach, covering national cinemas, genres, and film movements from around the world. The most up-to-date dictionary of its kind available, this is a must-have for all students of film studies.

Rich, thought-provoking and diverse; an illuminating guide to the landscape of film studies * Mark Cousins, director, critic and creator of The Story of Film: An Odyssey * Impressive for range and readability ... An unusually absorbing reference work for students and film buffs alike * The Independent {Radar} * Film-studies students will find it invaluable, but anyone whose interest in movies strays beyond the popcorn circuit should have it on their shelves. * Philip Kemp, Total Film * I could find little to fault in this work...[it] will... enhance understanding for anyone interested in film and film criticism. * Bob Duckett, Reference s * About the Author Annette Kuhn is Senior Professorial Fellow in Film Studies at Queen Mary, University of London. Guy Westwell is Senior Lecturer and Director of Taught Program in Film Studies at Queen Mary, University of London.
