A book you'll talk aboutBy Edward GusheeKen Rotkop is a story teller par excellencePick up a copy of his latest book, AS I REMEMBER IT, find a soft chair, sit back and peek under the covers of some of Hollywoods most distinguished celebrities. They are not what their PR people said of them, nor what they projected on the screen. Its quite a peek! The book teems with humor, fanaticism, cruelty, devotion. And you might even shed a few tears along the way. Not bad for 163 pages. Youll finish Kens book long before you chair is even warm.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A cleverly written "tell-all" by a leading pro from HollywoodBy ArleneI loved looking back at Hollywood the way it was filled with so many bright and talented people. Ken was part of the era when Hollywood was growing up growing into the mega entertainment industry. AND Ken grew right along with it and is still a large part of it. Hes a wonderful retired industry executive who keeps his finger on the pulse with screenplays, books and so much more. Pick this book up youll enjoy it. AND, go online and read about Ken - the leading Pitchman at Pitchmart.com.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Take a fun trip with Writer, Producer, Studio Executive, Ken Rotcop through Hollywood.By Hobart Carraway Jr.From the author of "Let's Sell Your Script" to "The Perfect Pitch" another great read in "As I Remember It". It's a pleasurable read of tantalizing trivia of the rich a famous entertainers and actors that has worked with over his 50 year career. Get the book, sit back, and relax as he takes you on a fun trip through Hollywood and Las Vegas. You'll enjoy the ride.

From Marilyn to Streisand and All the Celebs In-Between "Before you can get someone to read your screenplay you have to know how to write it. Ken Rotcop is the master at teaching writers how to tell a story." Oprah Winfrey, the Oprah Winfrey Show "Forget about snappy dialogue, characterization and plot. It's the pitch that gets a script read and a movie deal done. If it were not for Ken Rotcop, most new writers would be out of the loop." John Lippman, Wall Street Journal "Two-thirds of the earth's surface is covered with water and the other third is covered with people who have fabulous ideas for shows if only a producer would give them an opportunity. Ken Rotcop, an award-winning writer and producer, provides a guiding light to this group." Robert Siegel, All things Considered, National Public Radio "Mr. Rotcop was the single most influential person I'd met in the early years of my career. He gave me the courage to go after my dream. He is an industry legend." Andrea Leigh Wolf, author, Sell Your Screenplay "I first met Ken Rotcop years ago when I was a panelist on a game show and he was the writer. His books are filled with terrific stories and funny anecdotes. The boy can write!" Rose Marie, star of The Dick Van Dyke Show "Having toured the country and lectured with him, I can honestly say no one can captivate an audience as Ken Rotcop. His stories and his humor keep the audiences clamoring for more." Doug Schwartz, creator/producer/director, Baywatch TV series and feature films "Hollywood veteran Ken Rotcop is the Master Pitchmeister. His sometimes dramatic, sometimes hilarious collection of personal anecdotes will lead you through all aspects of a life well-lived." Marlene McGarry, co-author of Living the Blues: The Story of Canned Heat
