Reading it gave me warm fuzzies - from nostalgia about my own time at a small liberal arts school to appreciation of the author's navigation of becoming a grown up in California. This book gives a voice to many of us who were high school queers in the late 1990's and are now creating and figuring out the queer world we live in today. I'm also impressed whenever people who work in the sex world tell their fun, racy stories without turning it into erotica. The book loses one star because of the writing. The writing is good, but not amazing. There are some typos and grammatical errors here and there throughout the book. There weren't enough to put me off reading it, but it's good to be aware of for those of you who care more about that sort of thing. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Entertaining - Yes. Titillating - Yes. Subtle insights into the human experience of learning to love one's sexuality - Wow Yes! By Mark Michael Lewis As a fan of Alison's books on lesbian werewolves (and her hilarious Bawdy Storytelling), I was expecting a fun and riotous read. Although I did get that, I was more impacted by the truly human experiences the various stories expressed. I came away, not only entertained and titillated, but with a sense of deeper understanding of a journey from uncertainty to joyous comfort of queer sexuality. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Like a good lover, She always leaves me wanting more! By JKOMG- I just couldn't stop reading all of Allison's fun and adventurous sexual shenanigans! Not realizing I had just read the last page, as I thirsted for more, I found myself yelling out an audible "Nooooooooooooo!!!" Thanks for sharing... On so many levels ;)

Furry-style fox hunts, breaking into waterparks, and masturbating in trees. It's all just part of the queer life of author and sex-educator Allison Moon. This collection of 18 memoirs celebrates the humor and tenderness of falling in and out of love and in and out of bed.

"Moon's (Girl Sex 101) voice is clear, frank, and refreshingly without shame as she recounts her winding and often-confusing path toward discovering her sexual identity... This series of vignettes illuminates the life and path of one "dyke," and at the same time it offers a positive example for others who are still trying to find their own voices and their own way." - Publishers Weekly "Moon has a lyrical and creative voice that lulls you in; it's almost like reading erotic storytime." - Bisexual Books "This book's a winner, a fantastic marriage between a one-of-a-kind narrator and an irresistible story." - Lambda Literary About the Author ALLISON MOON is the author of Girl Sex 101 and the Tales of the Pack series of novels about lesbian werewolves. She was a Lambda Literary Emerging LGBT Writers Fellow. As a sex educator, Allison has presented her workshops to thousands of people around the US and Canada.
