1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A key-Shifted, Beginner's VersionBy J.J. DanekI'm not sure what this sheet music is supposed to be, but it's not the Liebstraum No 3 you know and love. It's in a different key (F major), and it's simplified. It is also shortened. Does the description or cover tell you this at all? Nope. Do yourself a favor, and just pick up a Liszt compilation book.Gave it 2 stars instead of 1 because the cover is cool and I'm just going to get it framed since it's pretty useless as sheet music.

Franz Liszt (1811-1886), who is known for creating modern piano-playing technique and pioneered in harmony and form of piano composition, published this piece as part of three piano solos. "A Dream of Love" or "Liebestraum" in German, is actually the last in a set of three (No. 3) and one of the most renown classic masterworks of this great composer. This intermediate "Signature Series" edition engraved by Jonathon Robbins published by Santorella Publications is complete and in its unedited original form. This important wedding classic is a "mandatory study" for any serious pianist. Experience the beautiful melodies created by perhaps the greatest pianist who ever lived and unquestionably the greatest piano showman of all time.
