0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Deena J. Hahn Loved all the fun descriptions and memories that folks had of their adventures. 13 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Are we there yet? By Nancy L. Buchan This series of short vacation stories was easy to listen to, but lacked depth. Some of the readers mumbled a bit and were harder to listen to, but overall for the price it was a good listen. None of the stories had any depth, and none would cause you to choose any of these vacation spots. 1 of 3 people found the following review helpful. more of just listing places By brandyrose I didn't like this CD. I thought the narrator would go into more detail about the parks and museums. It's more of a listing of what's out there.

Grand Canyon National Park is one of the planet's Seven Natural Wonders, with 4.4 million visitors each year. Who keeps them safe, fed, and happy? When the wind blows at White Sands National Monument, legend says the centuries-old ghost of a Mexican maiden appears in the shifting sands. In Yosemite National Park, there's a guy who tracks road kill with a clipboard and a shovel to pry flattened victims from the blacktop. This colorful collection goes behind the scenery at America's most popular national parks. It also visits lesser-known parks with thought-provoking tales to tell.
